At 9am on December 29, 2012, Zambia local time, CNMC Luanshya Copper Mines Plc, a CNMCL enterprise in Zambia, held a short donation ceremony at the square before its office building to donate seed and fertilizer to farmers in Luanshya District of Copperbelt Province,

Zambia.

Some Zambian governmental officials, including Luanshya District Congressman Mr. Chungu Steven, Mayor Mr. Chanda Nathan, administrative commissioner for the district, and agriculture coordinator, attended the donation ceremony. They said that although Zambia has rich mineral resources, when they run out, the country still needs to rely on agriculture development. Therefore, the current government has always been attaching great importance to the development of agriculture economy and encouraging the people to carry out agricultural production. The donation to local agriculture by CNMC Luanshya is not only a contribution to the public welfare, but will enable more local people to know better about CNMC Luanshya. They will understand that CNMC Luanshya is more than an ordinary Chinese company, but a public welfare ambassador that pays attention to the development of local society.

The public welfare project for promoting local agriculture development was initiated in 2009 and has been carried out for four consecutive years so far.
