

A Delegation of UBS Investment Bank Paying an Investigating Visit to CNMC

On January 16, 2013, a delegation of UBS Investment Bank, including Phil Gram, its global vice president, Chi-Won Yoon, its president for Asian-Pacific Region, and Li Yi, its president for China Region, paid an investigating visit to China Nonferrous Metal Mining (Group) Co., Ltd. (CNMC), the holding company of China Nonferrous Mining Corporation Limited (CNMCL). Luo Tao, president of CNMC and chair of the board of CNMCL, cordially received the delegation. The two sides had a cordial and friendly talk about the issues of common interest.

Vice president Gram and his colleagues first visited CNMC exhibition hall and learnt CNMC's history and achievements in "going out." He expressed warm congratulations on CNMC's huge achievements in reform and development and highly praised CNMC's contribution to the host countries during its overseas investment. He hopes that UBS and CNMC can further deepen their cooperation, give full play to their own advantages in financial market and real economy, and jointly make greater contribution to the society.

During the meeting, CNMC president Luo Tao thanked UBS for its great efforts in supporting the successful listing of CNMCL. He pointed out that in 2012, although global economy faced a grim situation, the prices of nonferrous metals had great fluctuation, and the capital market did not bode well, CNMC successfully issued the first African concept stock against all odds. The successful listing of CNMCL will not only offer powerful capital driving force to its business development, but will benefit Zambian people as well.

Chi-Won Yoon, UBS president for Asian-Pacific Region, said that UBS has the confidence and plan to further expand its business in China. UBS hopes to provide CNMC with more services so as to enlarge the two parties' cooperation in wider fields and at deeper levels.

Also attending the meeting included Han Hong, CFO of CNMCL, Li Honggui, co-chair of UBS Securities Investment Bank Department, and staff members of some relevant departments of CNMC.

(A cordial meeting)

(Visiting the exhibition hall)

(A group photo)