

Defense Attaché of Chinese Embassy in Zambia He-Zhijian Leading Delegation of Defense Attaché of African Embassy in Zambia to Visit CLM

On April 17, 2013, the defense attaché of Chinese embassy in Zambia senior colonel He-Zhijian led the defense attaché of Malawi, Zimbabwe, Mozambique and Botswana in Zambia together with officers in the Foreign Affairs Liaison Office of the Ministry of National Defense in Zambia visited the China Nonferrous Luanshya Copper Mines Plc (hereinafter called CLM), a listing corporation in Zambia. They had a brief talk with Luo-Xingeng, the vice president of the company and general manager of Luanshya after visiting Muliashi Leach Plant.

During the talk, the defense attaché delegation of Ambassador in Zimbabwe spoke highly of the development of China Nonferrous Luanshya and its positive contribution to the local economy: "both Muliashi Mine and Baluba Mine have undergone tremendous changes and restored the vitality since 2009 the company's acquiring Luanshya. The development of CLM has not only guaranteed the livelihood of its employees, but also promoted the development of local economy. It not only introduces advanced technology into Africa, but will also continue to promote the development of Africa through technology transfer. In addition, the concept of localization management is also very impressive and that we believe China is a true friend of Africa."

After the talk, the delegation posed for pictures with the general manager Luo-Xingeng in front of the office building of CLM and presented him a sign of "Foreign Military Attache Association of Zambia" as a souvenir.

